With the January number, the regular re-publication of the Edinburgh Review has been commenced, and if will henceforth appear, dicommences, and it was necessaria appear, in-rectly after the receipt in this country, in hand some double extra numbers of the New World necessary. Of the history and high repute of this great periodical, little need to be related to the reader, who, possesses the sligh est tamiliarity with the late author of the 10-h century. It has of late years owed its chief cles of Lord Brougham and Thomas Bahbung-ton Macauly; but it has boasted contributions from the pens of Walter Scott, Thomas Moore, William Wordsworth, Dr. Paley, Dugald Stew. art, and a host of other great authors. Their successors in the Review though inferior in reputation, are searcely in learning and talent-for the most profound and eminent scholars in Great Britian are now employed to supply its pages. Leafurner editor, Lord Jeffrays, is now the most distinguished Judge on the beach of Scottinul, and it has recently been conducted by no less a personage than Col. Napius, author of the History of the Penensular War.
